

Breakout Session II: Emergency Management

Title: Emerging Management Education

Author: Dr. Patrick O'Neil, UNO

Patrick O'Neil, PhD, is the Director of Emergency Management for the University of Nebraska at Omaha. His research interests focus on the formation and implementation of policy affecting the safety, security, and protection of critical infrastructure. Dr. O'Neil has also been extensively involved with the study and development of emergency management education as well as national and international partnerships which support identification and sharing of emergency management best practices and instruction.